

Simple “PowerPoint” solution

We use a fairly simple (perhaps nerdy) method of projecting slides. It’s free, and surprisingly straight-forward once set-up.

1. Microsoft power point viewer
2. A simple batch file which feeds .ppt/.pptx files to the Power Point Viewer
3. Another application – “winwarden” which sits in the background and when it recognizes a Powerpoint viewer window attempting to open, it moves the window across to the extended monitor/projector
